MAY NOT OPEN CONVENTION

RUEF WILL SOON BE FREE

Former Boss Will Next Be Tried
on Charge of Having Offered
Former Supervisor Furey
a Bribe.

(Special to The Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—Abraham Ruef is near to liberty. Before nightfall he will in all probability be released from prison. After more than a year spent in custody, during which he once pleaded guilty to a charge of extortion, and a jury sitting in a case disagreed as to a verdict on a bribery charge, he has at last been able to secure bondsmen in a sum of more than $150,000, and has almost effected his release.

BONDSMEN QUALIFY.
This morning before Judge Murasky personal friends of Ruef qualified for $150,000 more and this afternoon the court will finally approve Ruef's father and sister as sureties, which will complete the examination. A. M. Edelman, an architect of Los Angeles, was accepted for $40,000. Sidney Hertzog, the billboard man, William Cohen, a capitalist, Louis Friedman and Mrs. Davis, each qualified for $10,000. The last three have previously qualified in larger sums.

The prosecution was represented by District Attorney Langdon and Assistant District Attorney Harrison, and but little opposition was made to any of the sureties.

THE NEXT TRIAL.
(Special to THE TRIBUNE.)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—The prosecution has elected the case of John J. Furey, or which to try Ruef in Judge Lavelle's department on Wednesday, July 15.

This is one of the trolley cases, the indictment having been made by the McFarland Grand Jury, and the former boss is accused of bribing Furey in an effort to influence his vote on the overhead trolley.

District Attorney Langdon notified Attorney Murphy of his choice this morning in accordance with the direction of Judge Lavelle.

Pontiff Issues Important Order

ROME, July 6.—An important Pontifical document reforming the organization and working of the Roman congregation was made public today. It removes Great Britain, Holland and Canada and the United States from the jurisdiction of the propaganda these countries thus ceasing to be considered missionary lands.

Calhoun's Counsel Objects to Delay

(Special to The Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—Attorney A. A. Moore, representing Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads without foundation, Governor Johnson's morning to the continuance of the cases against his client which are on the calendar in Judge Lavelle's department of the Superior Court.

WORRY OVER FOURTH OF JULY NOISE CAUSES DEATH

Was Victim of Hallucination and Auto Suggestion

CHICAGO, July 6.—Suffering all the agony physical and mental and exhibiting many of the symptoms that accompany death by poisoning, John Norcia died yesterday, the victim of hallucination and auto-suggestion. It is believed his condition resulted from worry because of Fourth of July noise.

NO TRACE OF POISON.
Attending physicians found no trace of poison in their examination of Norcia. Members of his family declare that he had eaten nothing that might cause his condition. But the efforts of physicians to assure him that he was not poisoned were futile as he passed into a comatose condition and died after hours of acute suffering.

PHYSICIANS PUZZLED.
The case is one that puzzled physicians of the Alexian Brothers Hospital staff and many of them will attend the inquest today while alienists also will be present to explain the cause of Norcia's death.

A weak mental state is believed responsible for the self-hypnotism. It was asserted by several physicians that a series of deaths occur annually in every large city from such conditions.

SON OF AUTHOR OF 'AMERICA' SEEKS PARDON FROM JAIL

Aged Man Has Been in Prison Four Years for Embezzlement

DES MOINES, July 6.—A case which excites general human interest came before the State Board of Pardons in this city today. It was the application of F. S. Smith for a pardon. He is the son of Samuel Francis Smith, D. D., who wrote "America," and was one of the most prominent and influential residents of Davenport for many years. He is now an old and infirm man. In 1904 he was sentenced to the Anamosa penitentiary for eleven years for the embezzlement of $200,000.

GIRL CAUSE OF FATAL SHOT

Assailant Declares Beautiful Castilian Maid Was Responsible for the Quarrel and Shooting.

(Special to The Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—As the result of a quarrel over a girl, Tommaso Coffiso shot and fatally wounded Teodoro Anichello at 1 o'clock this morning on Dupont street near Green.

According to bystanders Coffiso reproached Anichello with having said something insulting some time ago and Anichello replied in kind. Coffiso objected to the remark saying that he had been insulted, and pulled a revolver and shot the other in the abdomen. The firing attracted the attention of Policemen Drolette and Wade who captured Coffiso just as he was darting through a dark alleyway in a desperate effort to escape.

Emergency Hospital, where he died at 1:30 p. m. today. His home was at 1315 Putnam street Fruitvale.

HELD AT PRISON.
Coffiso has been charged with murder. Coffiso, when interviewed at the city prison this morning, stated that a beautiful little Castilian girl is responsible for the trouble. He says that both he and Anichello are in love with the young woman, whose name he refuses to divulge.

GOES MILES TO CATCH SPECIAL

Racing Against the Elements to Reach
Denver

Has Only a Brief Talk With Bryan on Policies—Center of All Eyes Today in 'Democracy'

LINCOLN, July 6.—Bryan, at 1:30 was assured that the Missouri Pacific expected to dispatch a train for Omaha from the Twenty-seventh street station and he arranged for Bell to take this train. It is scheduled to leave here at 2:30 and if not stalled will reach Omaha at 5:30 p. m. This would enable Bell to catch a regular train to Denver as the Union Pacific line is officially reported clear.

FAIRVIEW Lincoln, Neb., July 6.—Theodore A. Bell of California, who is scheduled to call the Denver convention to order tomorrow, may not be in that city at the appointed time as floods have cut off Lincoln from railroad communication with the outside world.

VISITED BRYAN.
Mr. Bell reached Fairview at noon and Mr. Bryan, who had been talking by telephone with officials of the four railroads running through Lincoln, told him that his one hope of getting out of the city is by special train, which was scheduled to leave over the Union Pacific at 1:45 p. m., carrying the Lincoln Bryan Club to Denver.

OFFICIALS DOUBTFUL.
The train, according to information given Mr. Bryan at 12 o'clock, is expected to go via the Chicago and Northwestern tracks to Fremont, Neb., there to connect with the main line of the Union Pacific. At 12:30 p. m., however, Union Pacific officials were pessimistic and expressed the gravest doubts that the train could get through. Five inches of rain fell last night, and conditions are extremely serious.

BRYAN WORRIED.
By 1 o'clock Mr. Bryan himself had grave doubts about Mr. Bell being able to get out. A telephone from Passenger Agent Slosson informed him that at that time there was not prospect of the Lincoln special getting out.

Mr. Bryan thereupon hurried to his telephone making every effort possible to find some means of escape.

SHORT CONFERENCE.
The purpose of Mr. Bell's visit here, it was authoritatively stated, was to have discussed with Mr. Bryan some of the questions likely to be asked by the platform. He was closeted with the candidate for 15 minutes and there was not time to consider in detail the matters connected with the Bell speech as temporary chairman. The Cole-Bell incident on the train yesterday was touched upon sufficiently to show Mr. Bryan that reports of its importance had been exaggerated. Mr. Bryan declined to discuss it with the newspapermen.

MORE WASHOUTS.
The Union Pacific can do nothing towards getting Theodore A. Bell out of Lincoln. If he can manage to reach the Union Pacific main line there will be no further trouble. At noon today three washouts were reported on the Lincoln branch and no trains can possibly pass over the line today.

Temporary Chairman Bell, who spent a few hours with Bryan today and feared he would be unable to get out of the city because of the flooded condition in the vicinity of Lincoln, arranged for a special train to take

CONVENTION BULLETINS PLUNGES FLOORS TO DEATH

To Hear Contests
DENVER, July 6.—The national committee met at 10 o'clock today for the purpose of hearing evidence in the various contests for seats on the temporary roll call. It had already been arranged that each contest should be referred to a sub-committee. A resolution was adopted requiring each sub-committee to report not later than 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The sub-committee which considered the New York contests decided inasmuch as McCarran presented no evidence tending to show the invalidity of the credentials against which he had filed his contest he had no standing whatever, and his case was dismissed.

General Conference
DENVER, July 6.—A conference between all of the Bryan people has been arranged for 4 o'clock. The participants will include representatives of the Gray and Johnson people and many instructed delegates.

Ohio Contest
DENVER, July 6.—The National Committee decided the contest in the Nineteenth Ohio district in favor of the Rock Well faction, seating E. E. France and A. C. Holloway. The delegates favored by Tom Johnson in this contest were defeated.

OFFICER IS GIVEN A CLOSE CALL

Railroad Policeman Has Desperate Struggle With Two Thugs Whom He Had Cleverly Trapped by Ruse.

Struck Over Head Stunning Blows With Gas Pipe and Brick, Officer Gamely Continues to Give Battle.

(Special to The Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—Trapped by a clever ruse in the darkness of the interior of a Southern Pacific box car, railroad policeman J. Quinn was beaten within an inch of his life at 3 o'clock this morning by two thugs, whom he attempted to arrest. Only the presence of mind of the officer and the fact that he was able to hold on to his revolver amidst the desperate struggle saved him from death. The prompt arrival of Policeman D. J. Collins resulted in the arrest of one of the assailants who had been shot through the arm.

SURPRISED THE THIEVES.
Special Officer Quinn was patrolling his beat on Broadway near East street when the suspicious actions of two men attracted his attention. They appeared to be endeavoring to break open a car containing a consignment of chickens and the officer decided to approach stealthily. He moved around so as to get in the shadow of some other cars, but as he did so one of the robbers caught sight of him. Both then fled from the scene and ran into a box car, giving the pursuing policeman the impression that they thought they were secure.

ATTACK OFFICER.
The fight was, however, only a scheme on the part of the fugitives and one stood on either side of the door in readiness for the entrance of Quinn.

As the officer entered he received a stunning blow with a piece of gas pipe from one side while at the same time a heavy brick struck him full in the face. The two men then sat upon him, kicked him, and beat him almost into insensibility.

BRYAN IN CONTROL, BUT OTHERS ARE STILL HOPEFUL

W. J. BRYAN MAROONED BY RAIN

Democratic Leader's Home Cut Off From Rest of World by Storm Which Washes Out Railroads.

LINCOLN, July 6.—Nearly all of Lincoln is under water today, the result of a storm last night which lasted for hours and washed the proportions of a cloudburst. The flood not only caused an immense loss to property owners and to railroads, but has been attended by loss of life, the extent of which is not definitely known. At least one person, a millman named William Nelson, is known to have been drowned, and a woman and her three children living in the bottom in the west portion are missing.

BIG AREA SUBMERGED.

An area of 25 square miles was covered with water from two to 15 feet. The Burlington and all the Northwestern passenger stations were two feet deep in water and the Burlington line was washed both north and south of the city, making it impossible to bring to Lincoln any of the trains scheduled to arrive during the day. The Northwestern passenger station was just outside of the water line, but its roadbed is said to be so far under water west of the city that it will not attempt to move it after noon train scheduled to leave the city at 1:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan narrowly escaped being caught in the down-pour. They had driven to the Rock Island depot to greet some Central Iowa Democrats who were passing through and received a view just ahead of the flood. A half-hour later the road leading down the hill from the Bryan house to the trolley line was a shallow river rushing down the rapids with a roar like a small Niagara Falls. The Bryans had suffered damage and the police on one side of the newspaper tent were thrown down by the sheer weight of water which soaked the canvas.

WIRES RESTORED.

For a time the Associated Press wire to Fairview was the only communication between Fairview and the outside world, but by 8 o'clock the telephone wires were restored.

Repair men repaired the bridge over Antelope creek, west of Fairview, which had been washed out, together with considerable track. They thought it possible, despite the flood, that a carriage might get through by a round-about route. Automobiles could not by any means make the trip.

That this condition of affairs should exist at this particular time, when the convention is about to begin, is regarded as peculiarly unfortunate, as the down-pour was one of the heaviest in many years in this vicinity.

Train service temporarily has been annulled and floods have stopped all traffic in Lincoln. More than three inches of rain fell last night. The river this morning rose three feet above its maximum recorded in 1892. Serious washouts are reported in all directions.

Street car traffic was stopped this morning. The Lincoln Traction Company maintained service on many lines, but the service to Fairview, Havelock and the State Park were cut off.

The foundation of the Hudson Hotel was undermined and the building tumbled into the Antelope. Twenty persons escaped without injury.

The plant of the Lincoln Gas and Electric Light Company was inundated this morning and the gas supply probably will be shut off this afternoon.

SULLIVAN WILL NOW DROP OUT

Is to Resign From National Committee Without a Fight and Thus Please Bryan---No Answer to Guffey's Charge.

FAIRVIEW, Lincoln, Neb., July 6.—With telephone wires out of commission and Fairview cut off from Lincoln by a washout on the trolley line, Wm. J. Bryan had ample opportunity to peruse the strictures upon himself delivered yesterday by J. M. Guffey, national committeeman from Pennsylvania, in response to Mr. Bryan's attack upon himself in a speech July 4.

"I have nothing to say," was Mr. Bryan's response to an inquiry as to the Guffey statement.

SULLIVAN TO RESIGN.
The reference of Col. Guffey of Pennsylvania in his answer to the charge against Wm. J. Bryan that the latter has compromised with a "boss"—Roger C. Sullivan of Illinois, whose votes he needed, lends interest to a statement made here yesterday by M. R. Dunlap, delegate from Illinois.

Mr. Dunlap declared that not only would

Sullivan not be chairman of the national committee, but that he would resign as the Illinois member of that committee. "Will he resign of his own free will, or because he faces defeat?" the Illinoisan was asked.

TO PLEASE BRYAN.
"He will resign without a fight," slowly answered Mr. Dunlap.

"Has Mr. Bryan used his influence to secure Mr. Sullivan's withdrawal?"

"I think Mr. Bryan will be pleased."

Particular importance is attached to his statement of Mr. Dunlap for the reason that he and Judge O. M. Thompson of Jacksonville, Illinois, to whom Mr. Bryan wrote the public letter requiring Mr. Sullivan to withdraw from the committee remained here three days—much longer than any other visitors—and saw the Illinoisan daily. Mr. Dunlap intimated that the conference had been concerning the Illinois member of the national committee.

HE WANTS TO SEE NEW YORK MAN ON DEMOCRATIC TICKET

Significant Interview With Controller Metz of N. Y.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 6.—The delegation, Minnesota and Kings county, New York, which are expected to arrive early Sunday evening, did not reach the city until 2 o'clock this morning. Notices of the New York delegation had been received at Fairview and Mr. Bryan had expected to receive the delegation at the station. The delay of their special, however, made this impossible. The Minnesota train, significantly labeled "Johnson Special," arrived just ahead of the New York train and despite the late hour and a pouring rain, was met by the reception committee.

GREETED JOHNSON MEN.
Most of the Johnson men were up when they reached the city and several members of the Bryan reception committee, which has gone to meet Kings county, greeted the Johnson followers with a shout. The train stopped twenty minutes during which time it developed that some Bryan sentiment existed even in Minnesota. Governor Burke of Indiana and an ardent Bryan supporter, was on the train and had hoped to see Mr. Bryan. He was traveling as a guest of the Minnesota delegation and he did not want to say anything to hurt their feelings. He stated, however, that while the Minnesotans would vote for Johnson if necessary they were not Bryan men in the train who were for Bryan.

Congressman Hammond, who heads the Minnesota delegation, had retired and could not be seen.

Enthusiasm unbounded was in evidence when the Kings county Democracy train arrived.

"Our people wanted to see Lincoln if we had to sit up all night," said Herman A. Metz, Controller of Greater New York. "We had expected to see Mr. Bryan, but our train was delayed. Our people are generally for Bryan, if the rest of the convention suits him. One of the remarkable things I have noticed on the trip west is the sentiment which seems to have crystallized for the Nebraska. We have met nothing but Bryan men and if nominated his chances to win seem to me very fine."

Asked about the second place and his own candidacy, Mr. Metz said:

HIS OWN CANDIDACY.
"I certainly want to see a New Yorker on the ticket. It was very ideal of Mayor Dahlgren to work up a 'boom' for me, but I have not taken it very seriously, since the nomination was given to me. I have under way in New York city a revision of the accounting system and it will keep me pretty busy until my term of office expires."

"Would you accept the nomination?"

"Oh, I presume you might class me as 'receptive' but the chance of my being called upon to serve the country in that capacity is so remote that I have never discussed the matter. Many of our people want Chandler and he would be a strong man to nominate. It is not as well known in the west as in our country, but New York would certainly be satisfied with him."

JUDGE GRAY IS STILL IN RACE

His Friends Refuse to Withdraw Him as a Candidate Against Bryan—Will Talk Vice-Presidential Question Later With Managers of Boss

DENVER, July 6.—Judge Gray's name has not been withdrawn and under no circumstances will it be withdrawn," said Joseph Marvel, manager of the Gray Presidential forces. This was the answer given to the persistent report circulated about the hotel corridors last night and this morning that Judge Gray had telegraphed last night to those in charge of his interests instructing them explicitly not to permit his name to go into the convention.

FEEL CONFIDENT.
The Gray men were therefore feeling more confident than ever today, despite the apparently strong tide of Bryanism, they claimed that reports from incoming delegations gave distinct reality to their hopes.

"Judge Gray's name will be presented to the convention by Irving L. Huntly," said Mr. Marvel, "and seconded by Peter A. O'Boyle, who was chairman of the Pennsylvania State convention. We will also have seconds from two other States. As to the Vice-Presidential talk for Judge Gray we have absolutely nothing to say. We are continually urged by the Bryan managers to permit Gray's name to be considered for the second place, but we insist that we are not urging a man for two places at the same time. The Bryan people tell us that if we persist in trying for the first place we will lose the second. The reply to this is that we are not running Gray for 'second' but for 'place.' The result will depend upon the good sense of the convention."

STRENGTH INCREASES.
The Gray managers have been saying

OKLAHOMA'S REQUEST FALLS

DENVER, July 6.—Oklahoma today asked the Democratic national committee to give the state eight delegates in the convention instead of fourteen, the number it now has. The committee declined to increase the number of votes on the ground that it does not possess the authority to do so. It declared that Oklahoma can take eighteen delegates into the convention if it so desires, but that it can cast but fourteen votes.

"Wait until the delegations arrive," they say these rivals are increasing the Gray strength. They point out that instructed delegations—on no committee to Bryan—are coming to the convention and that conditions have so changed since the instruction were given that if free they would support Gray because of Mr. Bryan's recent statements of Gray's strength as a conservative candidate.

The Tennessee delegation given a specific instance of this sentiment. Three of the Tennessee delegates, Messrs. King, Miller and McMahon, are here in advance of their colleagues. They have visited the Gray headquarters and have told them that if Mr. Bryan had a vote in the Tennessee delegation they would support Gray—Gray's name would be for Gray.

DEVELOPING SENTIMENT.
The Gray managers are not asking any of the instructed delegates to waver, but they say sentiment among the instructed men is that conditions have changed and they wish the vote free from instructions. They claim this is having a powerful effect on the instructed delegates, turning them away from Bryan and toward Gray and Johnson.

The Gray managers are confidently claiming 78 New York voters, and they believe that a development today will have a significant bearing on this claim. The New York caucus at mid-day has been expected to take a definite stand on its presidential preferences. But the information of the Gray men is that New York meeting will not pronounce for Bryan.

This is construed by them as having an important meaning, namely, that the New York delegation will get throw its decisive weight toward the Nebraska, but considers the fight still open and will give its strength to Gray. Whether these calculations are correct the results of the New York meeting will soon show, but the Gray men talk with great confidence of having the New York strength swing to their candidate. They do not expect today's meeting to come out definitely for Gray, but the failure to come out for Bryan is claimed to be equivalent to a pronouncement for Gray.

Democrats in the Public Eye at Denver Today

Top—Congressman Clayton, who is to be permanent chairman of convention. Center—Governor Johnson, who is still in the race. Bottom—Judge Gray whose friends say he will stick.

JOHNSON'S NAME SURELY TO BE PRESENTED

DENVER, July 6.—Frederick B. Lynch, manager of Governor Johnson's presidential campaign today denied in emphatic terms the report that Governor Johnson's name had been or would be withdrawn from the contest.

"The story," he said, "is absolutely untrue. Governor Johnson's name will be presented to the convention, even if they be no prospect of his receiving any votes outside the Minnesota delegation. We started in to make this fight to the end, and we shall complete the record."

During the day Lynch received calls from delegates from a number of States, including several from New York, who assured Lynch that they were for Governor Johnson, because they believed that he could carry New York State, while they were of the opinion that Bryan could not do so.

TOWNE'S MANAGERS ARE FEELING CONFIDENT

DENVER, July 6.—At the Vice Presidential headquarters of Charles A. Towne of New York today, favoring the report were being received, it is claimed, from many arriving delegations. The Missourians brought the cheering information that a strong vote had been taken on the train en route here, showing the entire delegation for Towne, except two, who favored John Mitchell, the labor leader. The Oklahoma delegation, while taking no formal action, has been canvassed and found to stand for Towne. Several southern delegations had also expressed their preference for Towne, including Alabama and Mississippi.

TAMMANY'S BRAVES QUIET

Carry Out Program and Make Murphy Chairman and Parker and Grady to Serve on Committees.

DENVER, July 6.—The Tammany hundreds from New York City began to arrive in Denver early this morning and continued to pour into the Union depot until well along toward noon. A big crowd at the station was disappointed when the Tammany men announced that there would be no parade or any picturesque features to mark their entrance to the city. Instead, the New Yorkers made their way in groups to the half score of hotels, where conversations had been made.

District leaders sought out Mr. Murphy as soon as they arrived and discussed with him the program for the caucus at noon.

Senator Alfred McCarran's Brooklyn delegation—most of them contestants in the fight between McCarran and Murphy—also arrived today, as did the delegates from up-state, making New York's representation at the convention complete.

SAME PROGRAM.

Even the New York delegation went into caucus it was stated that there had been no change in the program set up when a decision was reached to pass over for the present the question of policy as to platform declarations, and preferences for Presidency and Vice Presidency. The caucus will assign all these important matters to sub-committee, which it is frankly to Chas. A. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall.

Mr. Murphy was slated for leaving New York for selection as chairman of the delegation.

PARKER'S ATTITUDE.

Judge Alton B. Parker, it was stated, would surely represent New York on the committee on resolutions and would fight for the incorporation of New York Ideas into the platform. It is believed that New York's position as to offering a Vice Presidential candidate will depend entirely upon what sort of platform is framed up by the convention. Judge Parker was busy before the caucus went into session regarding a new resolution with respect to the memory of Grover Cleveland. It was said that no copy of the resolution would be made public until it had been approved by the New York State leaders.

CAUCUS TODAY.

According to the program, New York's platform ideas would be formulated by a sub-committee to be named at the caucus. This sub-committee will have access to the draft of the platform as outlined by the Bryan leaders and will make up a tentative draft of its own representing New York's desires and suggestions.

Other than the selection of Mr. Murphy as chairman of the delegation and the filling in order to conform to the convention's temporary organization it was said nothing would be developed at today's caucus.

THEY PROGRAMMER.

At the New York State headquarters here today the previously arranged program of the State leaders was carried out in every detail. No action was taken as to the vice-presidential selection of national committee.

Lewis Nixon was appointed at the head of sub-committee of ten to draft a tentative platform at a subsequent caucus, and to be urged before the committee on resolutions.

MURPHY CHAIRMAN.

A strong anti-injunction plank was offered in the caucus and referred to the sub-committee without debate. Charles F. Murphy was made chairman of the State delegation; Alton B. Parker, member of the committee on resolutions; Thomas F. Grady, member of the committee on rules; Daniel F. Coakley, member of the committee on credentials and Charles P. Wildman, member of the committee on permanent organization.

RAIN DELAYS CONVENTION TRAIN

CHICAGO, July 6.—The special train over the Rock Island Railroad carrying friends of Mayor Tom Johnson of Cleveland to the Denver convention, scheduled to arrive in Denver at 2:15 this afternoon, encountered a washout caused by a flood about forty miles west of Omaha last night and was compelled to return to Omaha, from which point it will proceed at once over the Union Pacific. It should reach Denver late tonight.

Mayor Johnson was not on the train, having previously gone west.

Mrs. P. L. Bahaan of 478 Twenty-second street fell out of a buggy last night and fractured her left leg. She was stepping out of the rig when she lost her balance and fell. The woman was removed to the receiving hospital by her husband, after Dr. A. C. Smith set the fracture she was taken home.

WILL MAKE JOHNSON MEMBER OF CABINET

That Is if Bryan Is Elected President---Done to Placate the Scandinavian Feeling for Johnson.

DENVER, July 6.—An interesting conversation element with which the Minnesota governor is identified by birth and association.

Mr. Bryan did not resist the idea of "playing politics" but at the same time, it is said, he received the suggestion with considerable favor and if the matter could be freed from interested motives and political expediency he would be inclined to let it be understood that Governor Johnson would be favorably considered if the occasion arises to form a Bryan candidate.

"COWARDS!" IS CRY AT CAUCUS

Col. J. M. Guffey Reelected Democratic National Committee From Nevada After Portion of Delegates Bolt.

DENVER, July 6.—Colonel J. M. Guffey was today re-elected member of the Democratic National Committee from that State, although several delegates left the caucus before it was done, declaring the proceedings irregular.

The delegation met at the Adams House and immediately after being called to order a motion was made by John H. Fow of Philadelphia that an adjournment be taken until 8 o'clock tonight. The motion was seconded by L. McQuiston of Butler.

It was urged in support of the motion that the contests for various seats in the convention had not yet been settled and that the meeting was not regular.

CRIES OF "COWARDS!"

The motion was declared by the anti-Guffey men to be carried, although not more than a dozen delegates voted. Those favoring the adjournment, all opposed to Guffey, then left the meeting and cries of "cowards" from the Guffey men.

Colonel Guffey then entered the room and the meeting was again called to order, forty-eight delegates being present, although four or five alternates were included in this total. William J. Bannon of Pittsburgh acted as chairman. P. J. O'Boyle of Wilkesbarre named Guffey for national committeeman, the nomination being seconded by John M. Garman of Wilkesbarre. Guffey was elected without opposition.

Don't miss the great piano opportunity this week at the Elfers Music Company's sale, 1075 Clay street, Oakland.

for breakfast. No matter what you eat on other days, these are the "sunny days"—the "red letter days"—when you want to be at the top-notch of mental vigor and physical power.

"FORCE" is made of the best white wheat, steam-cooked, rolled into thin flakes, combined with the purest barley-malt and baked. Always "clasp" it before serving it by pouring into a pan and warming it in oven. Then serve in large dish with cream, piling the flakes in one side of the dish and pouring the cream in the other side, dipping the flakes as eaten.

From the Shadow of Pike's Peak.

The dispatches from Denver and outlying points indicate that it is all over but the fighting and the shouting. Though Mr. Bryan has the whole business in the hollow of his hand, and can determine final action, he has not the power to muzzle the disgruntled, as we are able to see from his amenities with Mr. Guffey of Pennsylvania.

Other such displays are looked for when the formal proceeding of ratifying Mr. Bryan's arrangements is under way. There are many in the convention who don't like it, and give signs of an intent to say so, but they will not be able to get any farther, and the mere expression of impotent wrath does little but furnish diversion.

One of the dispatches this morning takes account of the absence from Denver of Class A Democratic statesmen. Bailey of Texas was to have been there, but has a sore throat. Tillman of South Carolina some time ago went off to Europe, apparently forgetting that this is a Presidential year, and that the election of a successor to the man he so joyously hates would be one of its events. John Sharp Williams, the long-time Representative but new Senator from Mississippi, is nowhere as far as the convention is concerned. Culberson, Bailey's Senate mate, declined to attend at Denver as delegate-at-large. Daniel, the dyed-in-the-wool, of Virginia, is somewhere else than in the shadow of Pike's Peak. The leading Democrats of the South seem to be looking the other way until it is all over.

The Democrats of New England who are on the scene as participants are headed by George Fred Williams of Massachusetts, a sort of political wild man of the woods. The New York delegation has discredited a man of national standing, such as Alton B. Parker, and given perfunctory adherence to the Man from Nebraska. Bryan apparently required Tammany to swat his enemies in that body before permitting it to come in under the yoke.

There are numberless candidates for the Vice-Presidency, and not one in sight who is recognized as able to lend weight to the ticket. Judge Gay, having been a candidate for first place, and having declared unequivocally that he will not take second, would not have the strength that he might otherwise have had. Johnson and his friends are mad all the way through and won't play at all, and as for the rest, they are a job lot.

There is but one thing certain about the Denver convention, if we may judge at all from the later dispatches, and that is that it is going to do finally just what Mr. Bryan wants done. It may squirm and some of its elegantes may jaw, but in the end it will adopt the Bryan platform and do the other things he directs. Bryan is it in a sense that no other individual ever dominated a national party.

The Sailing of the Fleet.

At 2 o'clock tomorrow, just one day over two months from the day it sailed in through the Golden Gate, the mighty fleet of American warships, cruisers, torpedo-boats and attendant craft, will sail out again on its way to the Orient and around the world to its haven on the Atlantic coast.

The departure will be taken account of by many people, but will not attract the attention of the mighty multitude that gathered to welcome its arrival.

The comprehensive voyage of this fleet was the idea of the President, who thought it would be a great educator, not only to ourselves, but to the nations of the earth. He thought that the United States was not impressing all the peoples in a way commensurate with its real importance, and this trip was planned as the final act of many that have served to put the nation more certainly on the map of the world.

It is not realized here how the proposition was derided and opposed in the East. Some account of the opposition may have reached us through occasional brief dispatches in the California papers, but the feeling manifest against the Chief Executive in connection with the cruise was intenser than is generally understood. He was denounced over and over again, through the greater press.

So far the results have borne out the ideas of the President. The fleet has met everywhere with the greatest enthusiasm, and left vivid impressions of the nation's prowess. It has demonstrated among other things the seamanship of the American naval sailorman, and the seaworthiness of the American war craft. The feat of rounding the South American continent with forty odd craft built for fighting before sailing was in itself most reassuring. And the general account given of themselves by officers, men and ships is of a character most gratifying to all Americans.

Now the fleet departs to visit foreign ports and the far island possessions. It will command respect wherever it anchors, and it is foreshadowed that it will have a reception little behind that accorded it in the chief port of the Pacific.

The Fourth's Fatalities.

The deplorable fireworks accident that occurred Saturday may well direct attention again to the dangerous feature of our annual outburst of patriotism. We had taken account of it already, and acknowledged it variously in quib and comic picture; but perhaps it would be as well to be serious about it now.

Away back, before civilization was so deadly, it was harmless enough to let off the innocuous firecracker. There was never much solid sense in it, perhaps, but it seemed to meet the desire to do something apropos, and was rather encouraged than objected to.

As things developed, calling for more strenuous action and louder reports generally in American life, Fourth of July explosives kept pace, until now they more nearly resemble ordnance of war than harmless devices for the celebration of a national epoch.

This deadly change in the character of pyrotechnics was encouraged by manufacturers and dealers, a complaisant people standing in and generally preventing any restriction to the full play of the death-dealing toys. And so every year for very many, the morning after fighting o'er again the glorious event of '76, the battlefield has been more or less strewn with dead and wounded.

Perhaps it is time to take hold of this matter in real earnest. It will be necessary to divest ourselves of mawkishness about the decline of patriotism in putting the lid on fireworks. We will be entirely justified in proceeding on the theory that we are just as patriotic as they were a hundred years ago, and have more sense about some things.

Student Sues Faculty.

As bearing out in a sense an editorial that appeared in the Sunday issue of this paper, account is taken of the announced intent of an expelled Stanford student to sue the faculty to recover a large sum in damages, and of the haste of the student's father to reach San Francisco for the purpose of "lending a hand" in the litigation.

The point is not as to the grounds that led to the action of the faculty, nor even whether the student's offense merited his expulsion; it is the general attitude of boys and parents toward all with whom the former may have controversy.

There was a good deal of expelling and disciplining at Stanford a few months ago, and the reports had many allusions to the student attitude as to their "rights." That is almost the first thing that appears in the account regarding this student's intent to sue the faculty. His "rights" in an institution that furnished him free tuition, requiring nothing but compliance with its rules, are to be maintained by a suit at law, with the irate parent urging it on.

In this particular case and, indeed, all such cases, the presumption is in favor of the faculty. In this day such bodies are always conservative. They overlook very much. Their great problem is how to gloss over student excesses, and at the same time maintain their dignity and decorum before the outside world.

Appearances are that this young man has satisfied his parent of his utter innocence, just as the average American youth is able to do in all his troubles, and the net result is likely to confirm him in courses of action that will not be for his ultimate good. But as was stated in the former editorial treatment of this subject, it is the parental way in this land of the free.

QUIPS AND JOKES

A neighbor called to sympathize with an old woman whose husband had been carried to the churchyard the day before.

He found her eating porridge with a good appetite. She looked up and saw him standing uncertain in the doorway.

"You'd be wunner! I'm no greetin'!" (sighing, she remarked, going on with her meal; "but I hev been greetin' an' I've want to greet you in a way I've supple this dapple o' milk porridge.")

"The Abomination"

The class was getting grammar.

"Now," said the teacher, "can any one give me a word ending with 'ous'?"

"There was silence in the class for a moment. Then a boy sitting in the front row put out his hand.

"Well, John," said the teacher, "what is your word?"

"Please, sir," came the reply, "plous," full of plie."

"Mrs. Blumber is very nervous about there being thirteen at table tonight."

"Does she think something unpleasant will happen?"

"Yes; she has only a dozen knives and forks."

A journalist who owned two papers was reproached for devoting time to up-building opposite policies.

"There are two sides to every question," he responded, with dignity. "I propose to be right at least half the time."

"Dad," began Tommy, "haven't I been real good since I've been going to Sunday School?"

"Yes," answered dad.

"And you trust me now, don't you?"

"Yes," said dad.

"Then," demanded Tommy, "what makes you keep your box of cigars hid the same as ever?"

OAKLAND WOMAN
ROBBED OF PURSE

Miss M. C. Sorensen Is Relieved of Her Money While on Ferry-boat.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6. — Miss M. C. Sorensen of 1424 Franklin street, Oakland, reported to the Harbor police at 3 o'clock this morning that she had either lost or been robbed of a purse containing $60 while on the 7:30 a. m. boat bound for this city.

Miss Sorensen took her seat on the ferry and left her purse beside her. She did not miss it until just after she had left the boat, but believes that if it had been beside her when the slip was reached, she would have noticed it.

The purse was a small one, of the folding pocketbook type and the money was in gold and silver.

SOCIETY SMART SET

Several weddings are being arranged to take place during the month of August. Among those who have chosen that month are Miss Florence Zeigler and Dr. Le Roy Briggs.

The announcement of the engagement of this young couple was made in the early spring and came as a pleasant surprise to their many friends. The exact date has not been given out as yet.

Miss Zeigler is an attractive and talented girl and a graduate of the University of California. Dr. Briggs is a graduate of a San Francisco college and a fraternity man. He is a brother of Miss Anna Frances Briggs, the clever artist.

SEPTEMBER BRIDE.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Louise Phillips and Dr. Clarence Page of Berkeley was made early last week, and was an interesting bit of news to their host of friends. The exact date for the wedding has not been told as yet, but it is expected to occur early in September. Miss Phillips and Dr. Page have resided in Berkeley for many years and are both well known.

DEPARTED FOR NEW YORK.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roach left yesterday morning on the overland for New York, where they are to make their future home. There was a goodly number of their friends at the station to wish them God speed. Their section was filled with flowers, candy and books, with much to denote the affection of those whom they were leaving behind.

Mrs. Roach is one of the prettiest and most lovable young matrons and she will be greatly missed in her immediate circle of friends. A unique gift which her friends sent was a mail bag filled with overflowing with loving messages and good wishes, not to be opened until the arrival in New York.

SOCIETY AT COUNTRY HOMES.

Social doings are practically at a stand still in town for those who entertain are enjoying their country homes and the week end party seems to be the proper thing just at present.

The E. A. Herons are entertaining a house party at their attractive home in Bon Lomond. Among other families who have summer homes in or near Bon Lomond are Mrs. B. S. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Capwell and the Breeds. Mr. and Mrs. Murray Orrick and Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Orrick are located in the vicinity of Inverness, as are also the Hugs (Hugs), Mrs. George Dornin and Miss Helen Dornin are to spend a portion of the summer in Inverness.

FADETTES AROUSE ENTHUSIASM AT ORPHEUM

Baboon Comedians and Girls From Boston Are Rivals for First Honors.

BY HUBERT DUNGAN.

It may sound rather rough of Caroline F. Nichols and her associates, a group of charming Fadettes from cultured Boston to say that they rivaled the baboon comedians for first place in the affections of the Orpheum goers yesterday, but the statement is here set down in the interests of truth.

While it is needless to state that the form of entertainment furnished by the Fadettes and the baboons was widely different, the Orpheum goers, with their varied tastes, took them both in with about equally vigorous demonstrations.

OTHER GOOD ACTS.

Two other acts on this week are especially good—Mordred and Sylvester and Midgley and Carlisle.

The Fadettes are an orchestra of well-nourished young women who claim to have hailed from Boston, but look like the husky corn-fed Kansas product. They make a pretty picture all in white and pleasingly grouped in white chairs on the stage. Under the wing of Conductor Caroline F. Nichols they played a number of selections most acceptably. "The Whispering of the Flowers" was a particularly beautiful thing, but it was when they played "Berber's" "Grand American Fantasia" that the Fadettes literally and figuratively swept the crowd off its feet.

ESTELLE M. CHURCHILL, versatile drummer for the Fadettes.

the wildly applauding audience. They had been generous with their encores as it was.

BOYS WITH THE CHAIRS.

Mordred and Sylvester present a screamingly funny act, besides doing some good flip-flop work. On the program they are called "the boys with the chairs." These who saw this act would not be surprised if one of the boys never appeared again, for he fell off a table and over chairs often enough and hard enough to have killed three ordinary mortals.

Singer Midgley and Miss Gertrude Carlisle appeared in one of the cleanest bits of fun going the rounds for some time. Strange as it may seem they set through their delightful little comedy without once springing a mother-in-law joke. Midgley plays the part of Sammy, a very sleepy school boy from the rural district. Miss Carlisle is Sarah, a very wide-awake school girl, and a very dainty and clever little actress. In her very short skirts they would not be it for a luxurious growth of hosiery. Their act is full of wholesome fun, a little singing and a little dancing.

Clifford and Burke are down on the bill as comedians. They are bitter looking, but the baboons but not so good comedians. But the baboons are hard to beat. They do a number of remarkably intelligent things, closing with "Diavolo" looping the loop.

The best of the hold-overs is Thompson and company in "For Love's Sweet Sake."

Wilbur Mack and Nella Walker have changed their act this week for the better.

Levy, the New York artist, continues to amuse with his sketches.

PRINCE OFFICIALLY SAYS HE'LL WED MME. GOULD

Wedding of de Sagan and Boni's Ex-Wife to Occur in London.

LONDON, July 6.—Prince Helle de Sagan has given notice at the registry office in this city of his intention to marry Mme. Anna Gould. The date upon which the marriage is to occur is not given in the notice, but it will probably be celebrated July 7 or 8.

A full calendar day must elapse between the filing of the marriage notice and the marriage, but thereafter the couple can go to the registry any day during office hours and demand that they be married immediately. If married in any but the Anglican Church, a registrar must be present to sign the registry.

Mme. Gould and Prince de Sagan are extremely reticent regarding their plans. Their friends, however, say that the wedding will be very simple and a registry office one.

SMALL FIRE ON ROOF OF FABIOLA HOSPITAL

A small roof fire at Fabiola hospital at Moss avenue and Broadway yesterday created considerable excitement until the incipient blaze was extinguished. As near as could be ascertained the fire was caused by a defective chimney from the kitchen. It was quickly discovered and extinguished before many of the occupants knew there was anything wrong. A panic was probably averted by the fact that so few knew of it. With the memory of the Alhambra fire so fresh in the minds of everyone there might have been considerable trouble experienced with the inmates had they been advised of the occurrence. The loss at the hospital is estimated at $20.

WIVES, A RACE HORSE AND A BULL PUP

Offered to Fleir

PHILADELPHIA.—"Speaking as a plain man, who has worked hard all his life, I want to tell you that this millionaire business is no cinch."

John De Lacy said it—John De Lacy, saloonkeeper, of Fifty-seventh street and Haverford avenue, who on Tuesday last received the news that his uncle, Cornelius K. Kelly, had died in Cape Town, leaving him $7,000,000.

A little, steel-framed Irishman, with sandy hair and blue eyes, that are as keen as they are kindly, De Lacy has taken his good luck with the soundest sort of common sense. He is still tending bar half the day, and accepting exactly five cents for every glass of beer, though not because he hasn't had plenty of chances to give it away.

He is still wearing the same well-worn business suit that he wore last week, or, for the matter of that, last June, though not because he hasn't received offers of unlimited credit from a regiment of fashionable tailors.

And he is still living in the same simple fashion in which he has always lived, though not because he has not been importuned to buy:

- Seven automobiles.
- Three houses and lots.
- Five saloons.
- Six epoch-making inventions.
- One race-horse.
- Two trotters.
- A bull pup.
- Three gold mines.
- A steam yacht.
- Five motor boats.
- A trolley line.
- Fifteen private secretaries.
- Twenty-two wives.

Tempting, isn't it? But, you see, De Lacy doesn't want autos or horses, yachts or any more saloons, knows enough to know that he knows nothing of inventions or gold mines, and wouldn't have any use for a trolley line, if it were given him, is satisfied with his present home, writes quite well enough to get along without a secretary, and already has one wife, whom he steadfastly regards as the only woman in the world.

Nevertheless, De Lacy is worried. People are suddenly so anxious to be kind to him—people who were "always his friends," that acquaintances turning up, former enemies growing quickly magnanimous, and a thousand others of whom he never before heard, writing from all over the country—all just worrying to give him a chance either to help some estimable charity or to turn his seven millions into fourteen.

He told about it the other afternoon, seated in the dark little back room at his saloon, with a big crayon portrait of William McKinley looking down at him from one wall and, from the other, a colored lithograph of Robert Emmet, making that famous speech which has endeared him forever to the hearts of all Irishmen. Withholding the names of the writers, De Lacy took from three or four pockets great handfuls of letters, and proceeded to read them.

"These are a few that came today," he said. "I don't want to hurt anybody's feelings, but, if I ever started buying all the things that are offered me, I could get rid of that seven millions in as many days."

The first came from a Philadelphian. It ran:

Dear Sir—Having read in the paper of your good fortune and realizing that you will need a private secretary, I hereby make application for same. References, if required, though I suppose you're too smart a man to think much of such things. My address and telephone number are appended. White, call or phone.

From St. Louis arrived this letter:

Dear Mr. De Lacy—Seeing this a. m. in the paper where you had come into $7,000,000, would like very much to see you and give me $500. I am in the same boat you was, about to lose my house because of a mortgage. I am a paperhanger, but business is bad and you would never miss it.

De Lacy's voice shook.

"Now, what do you think of that?" he inquired. "This man may be in just the scrape he says he's in, he may be a liar. How am I to tell? It gets on your nerves, being a millionaire, that's what it does."

He ran through the whole list, wearily. Nearly all sorts of things that can be sold, and a good many that aren't on the market lists, have been offered him. But De Lacy isn't buying, just yet.

"I'll wind up this business," he said, "and sail for Cape Town on the first of August, leaving my family here. What I'll do when I come back, I don't know. I haven't made any plans. What's the use of scheming how to spend money before you get it? I notice you can always spend it without thinking."

"Two things are sure," he continued; "I'm not going to throw it away, and if these letters keep coming, I'll need it all to pay the doctors for my nervous breakdown."

Professional Woman HAS FAILED TO "Make Good"

SAYS WOMAN WRITER

MARY O. G. NEWELL.

Women in the United States, according to the figures of the Census Bureau, have more or less entered into competition with men in all the professions and in practically all the other gainful occupations of life, and observers have noted this competition as one of the significant "signs of the times." Peculiar interest, therefore, attaches to the affirmation at the head of this article, made by Mary O'Connell Newell, who is herself a professional journalist. Writing in the July Appleton's Magazine, Mrs. Newell asserts that in the professional and business world the doors of opportunity are being closed to women again, because "opinion seems to have crystallized into the belief that she has not 'made good' in the sense that she can stand alone, well supported, successful, and unassuming, upon her own work." The reason of this, we gather, is that women will not willingly pay the peculiarly high price that success, in their case, exacts, namely, "the almost always enforced choice between public life and the home, between business and true wifehood and motherhood." Says Mrs. Newell:

"In answer to the question of what he thought of the woman in business, a man said he had known but three kinds—the kind that married, the discontented, unhappy kind, unweary in its work, and the desexed kind. The last, he said, was the only successful kind."

While what men consider the "thoroughly feminine" woman is constantly invading the business field and achieving therein a comet-like success, marriage, says Mrs. Newell, is as constantly removing her from the conflict. The second kind mentioned above is, therefore, not only the inefficient and the failure, but these conscientious, hard-working professional women who do their work well at the cost of being always tired out and nervous. Of the third class we read:

"We all know her, for she goes everywhere, sees everything, and knows everybody, does her work well as a rule, but whether her work is well done or not, she herself has evolved from a decentered, aimless state into a something that dainty women find inexplicable, and that men call 'a good fellow,' while chattering flirts in their hearts that all women are not like her."

"The desexed woman anchors herself firmly, and experiences a certain complacency in doing so, to the detriment of life paying her little quarter as cheerfully as may be. Then she tries to see the game from a man's point of view."

TRIBUNE'S GALLERY OF SMART SET

$50 In Gold $50

No. 7---Miss Lou Dennison

Miss Lou Denison of 953 Eighth street is entered in the beauty contest and her friends think she will be a prize winner. She is the daughter of the late Senator Eli S. Denison. Miss Denison is an active member of the Oakland Club and is also a leader in the West Oakland Home.

THE TRIBUNE'S contest for the handsomest women in the smart sets of the Pacific coast will close on Aug. 26. The awards will be $50 for the first prize; $15 for the second and $10 for the third.

The prizes will be awarded by a jury of artists, selected by THE TRIBUNE, who will pass on each photograph entered.

The competition is for all members of the smart sets of California for the purpose of selecting the handsomest woman of the Golden West.

All communications are to be addressed to the Editor of the Woman's Page, OAKLAND TRIBUNE, Oakland, California.

SLIM WOMAN LUCKY, NOT HURT WHEN CAR PASSED OVER HER

NEW YORK. — Mrs. S. C. Cooper can thank her lucky stars that she possesses no embonpoint, as stout women call a certain rotundity which slim women call fat. A subway car ran over Mrs. Cooper, as she lay between the rails and parallel with them.

She is a little woman, not much more than five feet tall, slender, weighing 110 pounds perhaps. The fall out her head and the car bumped her a bit, but she will be all right today.

Mrs. Cooper, who is of a very nervous temperament, wanted to take a downtown express at the Ninety-sixth street subway station about 4:30 p. m. She was at the north end of the platform and, impatiently, leaned over far, watching for a train. One was entering the station when Mrs. Cooper lost her balance and fell, but fortunately, between the rails, not across them.

C. S. Hathaway, the motorman, stopped the train with a suddenness that jolted the fillings out of some of the passengers' teeth. But the first car of the train rolled over her, while weak women fainted and strong men yelled frantically and all that sort of thing.

Mrs. Cooper insisted that she be taken to her home, No. 35 West Ninety-sixth street. Her apparel was somewhat disarranged, but she was not injured.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA USES TYPEWRITER

Queen Alexandra of England and her daughter, the Duchess of Fife, Queen Mary of Norway, and Princess Victoria are all experts in the use of the typewriter. The Carlitz, Princess Ludwig of Bavaria and Queen Amelie of Portugal are also typists. Of late the Empress of Japan has taken to the machine, after she discovered a typewriter in her husband's library. The strange little contrivance interested her majesty, and she had it explained to her. She soon began to handle it herself, and now she does much of her correspondence upon it. Taken all together, however, these royal ladies probably use the typewriter less than Carmen Sylva, the queen of Roumania, who rattles off her novels, poems, and essays on the machine. The click of her typewriter is heard in the palace from six to seven hours every day, and often at night.

Miss Maud Ashford Hints She'll Outwit Elkins and Wed Gassaway Davis

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Miss Maud Ashford and former Senator Henry Gassaway Davis of West Virginia, it is said, will be married in Europe this summer.

It was announced a day or two ago that Miss Ashford and Mrs. John T. Davis, daughter-in-law of the former senator, were booked for a European tour. As Mrs. John T. Davis is a friend of Miss Ashford, it was concluded that the senator really intends to marry Miss Ashford some day.

The plans, it is understood, have been changed in the last two days on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Davis' father, A. C. Armistead, of New York. Mrs. Davis was obliged to hasten to Sea Gate, as her father is not expected to live. Even if her father recovers, Mrs. Davis will not go until he can go with her.

Gets Fifth Divorce

NO CHANCE FOR ANOTHER

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Because it is to the interest of the public that she should no longer have the right to remarry, Mrs. Minnie Begin, five times married and five times divorced, champion grass widow of Minnesota, has reached the end of her matrimonial rope.

In an order recently granted by Judge Brooks of the Hennepin county district court, granted Mrs. Begin a divorce from her fifth husband, but the divorce is limited and the right to remarry is denied the woman.

In his findings, Judge Brooks holds that a decree of limited divorce will grant Mrs. Begin every right which she would acquire from an absolute separation, "except only the right to marry, the further exercise of which," says Judge Brooks, "would not be likely to prove beneficial to either her or the public."

Mrs. Begin is 42 years old, and did not begin her matrimonial career until she was 25 years old. In sixteen years she has been led to the altar five times and in fourteen years she has been divorced five times.

cupations of life, and observers have noted this competition as one of the significant "signs of the times." Peculiar interest, therefore, attaches to the affirmation at the head of this article, made by Mary O'Connell Newell, who is herself a professional journalist. Chorus Girl Can Now... INSURE HER VOICE

NEW YORK, July 4.—Through young Mister Henry Edward Warner, their boss press agent—also, it should be remembered, the ex-president of the American Humorists' Association—the Shuberts have announced the establishment of a theatrical agency that will gamble on any proposition from the life of a star to the complexion of a chorus girl.

Mr. Warner outlined the scheme in a perfunctory sort of way.

"The idea is merely another step in the systematization of the amusement business," remarked Mr. Warner. "If the death and accident plan is a success, art will be launched yet another peg."

"In the past there has been too much dependence placed upon luck for the success of shows. If a likely paid star contracted a severe case of pty, or was obliged to take treatment for a painful case of ingrowing just, the manager was up against it, that's all. He would have to send the show to the barn and turn all the ponies and fillies out to graze in the meadows of the tenderloin."

GAMBLE ON TOES OR FACES.

"Costumes and props would have to be stored in the cockroaches and rats to lunch upon; the scenery that had been painted at enormous expense would be piled up for goodness knows long, a lot to dust and mildew. If Mary Cecilia Loftus got a kick in her laryngeal machinery or Adelaide sprained a toilet, or Eddie Poy accumulated a grouch from failing to pick winners, six days in succession, 'twas all the same, the manager was the goat. So we figured out to beat luck; and hit upon the general purpose insurance game."

"Up to date we have insured John Mason, Lew Fields, Sam Bernard and a few others for amounts ranging from $15,000 to $25,000. If Mason has to be scratched from 'The Witching Hour,' or Fields' entry has to be pulled from 'The Girl Behind the Counter,' why the manager will get the coin any way, even if the show is stopped."

"If Adelaide sprains a toe reaching for five minutes of 6 o'clock, why there'll be twenty minutes for a new book, until the underwriters' adjusters diagnoses the injury and figures on the damage to the house. It all depends upon the length of time it will take for the dancer to get back on the job."

"There are ten tons employed in Adelaide's business. Every toe will be insured for $5,000. When one toe is thrown out of alignment it will mean $5,000 for the house; if two toes are on the blink the house will receive $10,000 from the underwriters. If, as might easily happen, all ten toes require such adjustment and tightening as cannot be done on the spot with a small monkey wrench or screw driver, the insurance company will have to make good for the entire $50,000."

"That," continued Mr. Warner, easily, "gives you the genesis of the scheme."

Mr. Warner then galloped off to rejoin the "deadhead guards," as Jack Murray, head of the Klaw & Erlanger outfit, rode up excitedly. Mr. Murray waived a bunch of insurance policies, as he sprang from his pony. He said it was untrue that the Shuberts originated the idea of a blanket insurance covering all sorts of accidents that would interfere with the show business and he was prepared to prove it, or go jousting with Mr. Warner.

"The idea was entirely mine," confided Mr. Murray. "Mr. Warner has been stealing my business. I originated the scheme when I was out with Lillian Russell's 'Whiffles' show. "It was entirely due to my efforts that a company was organized to take risks on Miss Russell's complexion, an important asset. I insured that celebrated complexion against the ravages of wind and water, torridous, railroad accidents, the effects of tears, several kinds of lobster, champagne and specifically listed acts of Providence. I have here the policy itself, a document calling for $15,000 in case Miss Russell's complexion even cracks. If there is the faintest fissure or solution of continuity to be observed in any part of that masterpiece, the underwriters will have to come up with $15,000."

WOMEN STENOGRAPHERS TO DEMAND EQUAL PAY

MISS HELEN HALSEY MISS ELIZABETH MCGOUGH

Office Girls Get Less Than Hodcarriers

NEW YORK, July 4.—"Equal pay for equal work" is the motto of the new stenographers and typewriters' union which is intended to include all the women stenographers and bookkeepers in Greater New York.

The argument advanced in favor of a union for this class of workers is that teamsters and hod-carriers get $3 a day for work which requires far less skill than that required for office work, and by organization girl office workers can get the same pay.

One of the purposes of the union is to regulate the hours of employment and improve the conditions of the women workers in offices. The charter was issued by the American Federation of Labor recently and great progress in organization has already been made. It differs from other unions in the fact that a majority of the members will consist of women.

The membership will include office workers, stenographers, bookkeepers and accountants and their assistants in this line of work. The official name is, "The Bookkeepers' and Accountants' Union No. 1 of New York."

Helen Marot, executive secretary of the Women's Trade Union League, is chairman of the committee and she is assisted by Misses Alice Bean, Elizabeth McGough and Nellie Curley.

"We have incorporated the equal pay for equal work plank in the constitution of the union, and we shall have no controversy with the men on that score," Miss Marot says. "We shall all work together for the betterment of the class of workers who are obliged to work in offices. We shall strive to get every girl and woman office-worker in Greater New York in the union."

Helen Halsey, the stenographer who defended the stenographers as a class against the criticism of the Rev. Dr. Greer last fall, is heartily in favor of the movement.

"When we are organized, the employers will be in the position they ought to be in and the girl stenographers will not be so completely at their mercy," she said. "I have known of any number of young girls who, to get positions in offices where they did utility work, merely such as answering telephones, etc., had to be competent stenographers so as to be in reserve should the regular stenographer be ill for a day or two, and the pay they got was $4 a week."

The union headquarters are at No. 59 Court street, Brooklyn. John H. Snoddy is president; William Lombard, vice-president, and Edward P. Seery, secretary.

ONCE A GOLF

SHOULD BE A GOLF

Once a golfer always a golfer. Miss Dorothy Campbell, the runner-up in the recent ladies' championship, tells a good story which bears out the saying. At the age of two years—the authority of her mother and older sister—she first figured on the golf green with club and ball. This was at North Berwick, where, as a tiny tot in a pullover, she was taken on the golf green by her nursemaid. The infant's efforts to hit the ball along were observed by no less a personage than the late Mr. Robert Chambers, perhaps one of the most graceful amateur golfers of the old school who ever played. He remarked to the older sister, "You've got a good little golfer there." Miss Dorothy never had a single lesson from a professional, but picked up her splendid golfing observation and practice. Few ladies have such a valuable collection of trophies as she.

Bull Pup's Bath Tub and Shampoo Arrangement Are Expensive Luxuries

NEW YORK. — John Hedlund, who carpenters and contracts on East Twenty-first street, wishes it distinctly understood that the bull he has instituted against Mrs. Leslie Carter-Payne for payment for certain work done preliminary to the installment of a bath tub for her Boston ball totter was brought entirely without prejudice to the reputation of the actress with the audible bull.

"I don't blame her at all," said Mr. Hedlund. "You see, she is an actress, and, anyhow, she would be all right if she wasn't so excited."

"Mrs. Carter was certainly hard to please. Maybe you'd get her pleased and go away pleased and when you'd come back she wouldn't be pleased with what pleasing her before."

Mr. Hedlund would like $2075 for work he did in making the house at 115 East Eighteenth street into an abode suitable for Mrs. Carter, her husband, her son and the bull pup. The bill was originally $3000, but Mrs. Carter paid him $925.

"The dog's tub was going to be put on the top floor," said Mr. Hedlund, "right next to a shower bath and shampoo arrangement that she was having put in for her son. He kind of thought there ought to be another shampoo arrangement put in for Mr. Payne—that's her husband—but she says, 'No, he hasn't got much hair, anyhow, and what he has, I'll attend to myself.' Well, at the end of a month I sent her a bill for three-quarters of what I'd done, and in three days along came a check. A month after that I sent another bill, but along didn't come any check."

Justice Fitzgerald, who heard the evidence about the repairs for the bull pup, Mr. Payne and Mrs. Carter's son, has not yet rendered a decision.

Hides Shoeless Foot while Men Engage in Fight For Her Slipper

ATLANTIC CITY.—A pretty girl, whose slipper was snatched from her by a hardwired crack, furnished a little excitement recently when she hid the shoeless foot under her skirt while half a dozen young men smashed their straw hats in the struggle to regain the trophy. And the young woman wouldn't let the chap put on the slipper after he rescued it.

TITLED BRITISH BACHELORS MATRIMONIAL PRIZES

Among the titled eligibles for the matrimonial stakes, none perhaps have attracted the attention of match-making manna and husband-hunting daughters more than Lord Howard Walden, the richest bachelor in England, who recently added to his many accomplishments by producing a play written by himself at over $1,000,000 a year, and, as he is only twenty-eight years of age, there is still plenty of time for him to find the right lady to share his wealth.

The story goes, however, that Lord Howard Walden has said that until he finds a woman exactly like his mother, he will not marry. He is devotedly attached to her and it cannot be said that his lordship goes out of his way to find such a woman, for he is far from fond of society and much prefers his hobbies, which range from motor-boat racing and fencing—he is an amateur champion with the follies to electrical engineering and writing plays and poems.

Lord Howard de Walden, a visitor and co-bachelor of the Duke of Portland, whose alleged peculiarities were the cause of the case.

Many rumors have been spread concerning the matrimonial intentions of the Marquis of Anglessey, who succeeded his cousin three years ago at the age of twenty, but up to the present the Marquis seems to have remained free. He has a fortune of $500,000. His riches would have been still greater had not his predecessor, the eccentric Marquis of Anglessey, who has such a passion for dress and jewels and the production of plays, squandered much of the inheritance.

The youngest titled bachelor of the peerage who can boast of great riches is the Duke of Leinster, who came of age in March last. He is head of the great Irish house of Fitzgerald, and so premier Duke of Ireland. He succeeded his father at the age of six, and while still a little boy had a narrow escape from being burned to death while staying with his grandfather, Lord Rossmore, at the latter's country seat when it was destroyed by fire.

There is a prospect of a dual coronation for the lady who married Earl Hedley, the Duke of Northumberland's daughter. Lord Percy is now thirty-seven years of age—seven years older than Lord Leinster, the son and heir of Lord Rossmore, who is also a great party. Lord Dalmahy, when he succeeds his father, will be one of the richest English peers. Lord Rossmore owns nearly 35,000 acres, his wife, the late Lady Rossmore, who was a Rothschild, bringing much wealth into the family.

The Earl of Rossmore, too, who is the eldest son and heir of the Marquis of Cholmondeley, will one day succeed to a fine-looking young man of twenty-five, and a second lieutenant in the 15th Lancers.

Another very eligible society bachelor is Lord Granard, the King's Master of Horse, and a great favorite at Court. His lordship is now thirty-four years of age, owns about 21,000 acres, and is an extremely good-looking man, as well as a soldier of distinction.

INQUEST ON WRECK VICTIMS SET FOR TOMORROW

ACCUSED ENGINEER OF THE SANTA CRUZ TRAIN IN PRISON

Man Who Caused the Collision Is Held by Authorities Charge of Manslaughter Is Placed Against the Accused.

A very pertinent fact in regard to the wreck on Saturday night, at First and Webster streets, was pointed out yesterday, by a member of the railroad engineering corps and raises a point which will probably come into the subsequent investigation.

He pointed out that at the place where the derailing switch was placed for the safety of the block system the railroad had placed an inner or guard rail, which was for the purpose of protecting the block tower. In other words, when the train was derailed this inner rail was to guide the derailed train so that instead of leaving the track at a tangent it would glide along the inner rail and thus avoid any danger to the block tower.

On Saturday night, when the Santa Cruz passenger was derailed it ran many feet along this rail, and this had as much to do as anything else with its running over the crossing, where it was struck by the Alameda local. This rail was removed yesterday when the men were repairing the track.

For the first time in the history of railroading on the Pacific coast the Southern Pacific Company has invited citizens to assist in the investigation of a railroad accident, and a number of residents of Oakland participated in the inquiry concerning the catastrophe, which caused the death of seven men at First and Webster streets last Saturday night.

ENGINEER ARRESTED.

Engineer John Barry, who was in charge of the Santa Cruz train, which was wrecked in Saturday night's fatal collision at First and Webster streets, was arrested for manslaughter and placed in a cell in the Oakland City Prison by Chief of Police Wilson. This decision to arrest Barry came after a committee, composed of Southern Pacific officials, police and city officials and prominent Oakland business men, had made a thorough investigation of the accident and reached the unanimous conclusion that the main-line engineer deserved the blame for the catastrophe.

COMPOSITION OF COMMITTEE.

General Superintendent J. H. Young and Assistant Division Superintendent A. W. Baker decided to hold the investigation after they had completed a preliminary inspection of the situation late Saturday night. They determined to have on the committee representatives from different walks of life, so that its findings might be free of any taint of bias. Chief of Police Wilson was consulted, and he suggested most of the names of those who were summoned to the meeting. The committee which sat on the case consisted of the following:

General Superintendent J. H. Young, General Manager L. E. Calvia, Division Superintendent W. A. McGovern, Assistant Division Superintendent A. W. Baker, Assistant Division Superintendent W. H. Norton, Master Mechanic H. Russell, Master Car Repairer E. Engelbright, District Engineer L. F. Champion, Signal Engineer E. M. Cutting and Division Trainmaster G. D. Wright, all of the Southern Pacific Company; Chief of Police Alvin Wilson, Captain of Detectives Walter J. Peterson, Deputy Sheriff J. D. Moffitt, City Clerk Frank Thompson, J. T. Moran, a local clothier, and Fred Sandelin, a local druggist.

TESTIMONY TAKEN.

These men met at the Southern Pacific offices at the Oakland mole and listened to the testimony of all the railroad employees who had anything to do with the accident.

Towerman Carleton A. McCurdy, the man who manipulated the signal lights and switches from tower No. 11, at First and Webster streets, was asked to tell his story. Engineer William Marks, Fireman C. T. Ferris, Conductor John Colegrove and Baggageman R. S. Minkoff of the fourteenth street local train, and Engineer Barry, Fireman Herbert Drake, Conductor F. C. Corey and Baggageman S. S. Fulkerson of the Santa Cruz train, all followed with their own narratives and explanations of the accident.

RULES OF COMPANY.

Assistant Division Superintendent Baker read the rules of the company governing the manipulation of semaphores and the operation of switches, and Signal Engineer Wilson explained the technical drop the proper signal lights, throw on the derailing switch and lower the warning gates at the railroad crossing. The details of the interlocking system were thoroughly explained, and every man on the committee was allowed to see for Signal tower No. 3 near First and Webster streets. The cross and arrow indicate where the fatal collision took place Saturday night. In the foreground are seen men engaged in removing a guard rail at the derailing switch. Some railroad men say that this rail, intended to prevent injury to the signal tower, was probably largely responsible for the collision, as it prevented the proper derailing of the Santa Cruz train.

VISITED WRECK.

After this preliminary examination of witnesses the committee boarded a train and ran down the Oakland mole to the scene of the wreck. Here they caused to be enacted, as near as possible, the incidents which led up to the disaster of the night before. During the night the track had been cleared by the wrecking crew, and it was easy to place local and line trains in the same positions in which they were running just before the collision.

INTERLOCKING SYSTEM.

The towerman was then ordered to simulate how what actually occurred. Just what precautions the company had made to prevent the horror and just what rules had to be disobeyed to cause the accident.

UNANIMOUS VERDICT.

Returning with this information, the committee reviewed its deliberations at the Oakland mole and every man took part in the discussion. It was a wholesale session, and all had a voice in the final verdict. The committee reached a unanimous conclusion. It found Towerman McCurdy guilty of no negligence and it laid no blame on Engineer Marks of the local train.

BARRY TO BLAME.

On Engineer Barry of the main line train the committee placed the sole responsibility for the accident. The report of the findings of the committee, printed in another column, state that he "was at fault in that he was running at too high a rate of speed, and in that he did not observe the signal that was standing against him and which was protecting the use of the crossing by the other train."

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGED.

Having obtained this unofficial verdict against Barry—a charge of criminal negligence—Captain of Detectives Peterson placed Barry in a cell in the city prison. He did not want Barry to make his escape, and he, therefore, asked Chief of Police Wilson to order the man's arrest. Barry was booked at the city prison on a charge of manslaughter and he was placed in a cell, neither his bail nor his bonds being fixed.

SICK AT HEART.

The imprisoned engineer is most miserable in jail. The weight of the accusation which has been laid on his shoulders is too great for him to shake off. The realization that a competent board of railroad officials, Oakland officials and business men had heard the evidence and pronounced him guilty of the fearful disaster made him sick at heart. And the menace of the prison walls and the criminal charge hanging over him shook his courage and made him fearful of the future. Above and beyond his immediate predicament he felt the terrible responsibility of having been guilty or innocent. The man whose head had guided seven fellow men to a hideous death and had plunged over a score of people into a maelstrom of destruction, from which they mered, many of them maimed for life.

Engineer Everett J. Barry, who is blamed for the terrible collision that caused seven deaths at First and Webster streets last Saturday night has made a statement in his own defense. Barry says that he was placed on a run, the peculiarities of which he had not mastered before he was given the responsibility of taking trains over it, without an experienced guide. He says, moreover, that there was and has been much misunderstanding about the system of double semaphores, operated along that line and he adds that, in this particular case, it was impossible

STATEMENT MADE BY THE INVESTIGATORS

A COMMITTEE of the following persons, W. J. Peterson, chief of detectives; Fred Sandelin, druggist; J. D. Moffitt, deputy sheriff; Frank R. Thompson, city clerk; J. T. Moran, merchant; E. E. Calvin, general manager Southern Pacific Company; J. H. Young, general superintendent, Southern Pacific Company; W. A. McGovern, division superintendent, Southern Pacific Company; A. W. Baker, assistant division superintendent, Southern Pacific Company; W. H. Russell, master mechanic, Southern Pacific Company; L. F. Champion, district engineer, Southern Pacific Company; E. M. Cutting, signal engineer, Southern Pacific Company; G. D. Wright, division trainmaster, Southern Pacific Company, after a thorough investigation of the accident which occurred at the First and Webster streets crossing on July 4, 1908, report the following as to the findings:

That Towerman C. A. McCurdy was not at fault.

That Engineer William Mark of the Fourteenth-street local was not at fault.

That Engineer E. J. Barry of train 57 was at fault, in that he was running at too high a rate of speed, and in that he did not observe the signal that was standing against him, and which was protecting the use of the crossing by the other train.

OIL ON TRACK.

Finally, he says that a newly oiled track made his wheels slippery and prevented the prompt application of brakes.

Barry has had thirteen years' experience as a locomotive engineer, and this, he says, is the first occasion when any fault has been found with his work. He says that he went on the Coast Division as an engineer in 1895, stepping into that department of the railroad after having served for several years as stenographer in the office of the chief engineer of the Coast Division, in which post he familiarized himself with the company's rules and regulations. Barry has, in fact, been known as a sober, conscientious workman. He has his home at 3223 Eighteenth street, San Francisco, and is a married man.

ENGINEER'S STATEMENT.

"The facts about Saturday night's collision are simply these," said Barry this morning. "I ran past the first semaphore when I saw that it was turning green. I did not see the red light on the second semaphore until I was within 200 feet of the crossing. I have been told that the light could be seen from a great distance down the line but I saw the signal on the second semaphore only when I was too close to the crossing to save the train. Since the accident I have been told by an old time engineer that the second semaphore could not be seen for a distance of more than 200 feet. As soon as I saw the red light I shut off the steam and reversed my engine. The oily condition of the tracks made it impossible for me to stop quickly. When we began bumping along the line my reverse refused to work and we ran on into the smashup."

THINKS TOWERMAN EXCITED.

"I would not wish to blame the towerman, McCurdy, but I cannot help but think that he got excited and did not give the signal on the second semaphore in time for me to stop outside the danger line."

"It may not be generally known, but it is true that the fireman on my engine and the fireman on the local train both saw what was about to take place. I saw where I could not see the engineer of the local and it was the same way with him to see the second semaphore in time to avoid the collision.

Finally, he says that a newly oiled track made his wheels slippery and prevented the prompt application of brakes.

APPRENTICESHIP INCOMPLETE.

"This was my fourth run over the line. I was transferred a week ago from the coast division and my period of apprenticeship had hardly been completed. I was an extra passenger engineer and I was not familiar with the rules of the Coast Division. I was told that when the first semaphore was green the second would be blue, and that was all that was told me. The green lamp of the first carries one safely on to the second."

EMERGENCY LIGHT.

"I have also been told that such was not the case on this run. I have been told that the second is an emergency light and I have been told to watch carefully for it. When I made my first two trips I always slowed down at the crossing and was laughed at by my conductors, who told me that the main line trains always had the right of way."

INQUEST TOMORROW.

The inquest will be held tomorrow morning at the coroner's office, 228 Eighteenth street, at 10 o'clock. One proceeding will include all the dead.

Engineer Barry was taken into the police court this morning, and his case was continued until tomorrow.

Engineer Faces

Accusers In The Police Court

As though over and over again he had lived through the horrors of Saturday night's awful wreck, when, possibly through his own carelessness, seven lives were lost, and a score of others were injured, with a line of cars stretching from the foot of the hill to the top of the mountain, which was run into by the Alameda local, and the wreck of the Santa Cruz train this morning, with two dead.

Through the long wait for the trial the prisoners were brought into the court room until Judge Cony arrived and dismissed the court. A long calendar, thanks to petty lawyers, vagrancy and all the other violations of the law, Barry continued to wait wearily at the door.

On all that he may be guilty of a whole-scale roundup, it was a sudden surprise. Barry is a young man with a bright, sunny smile.

HIS RUGGED FORM.

He is not large of stature, but strength shows in his rugged form, his sun-tanned face and in his shrewd hands, which twined nervously as though of an iron. He is surrounded by the same of the earth who infuse the shock of a Monday morning, he alone was charged with a heavy time. He knew it and for all he could do to preserve an outward calm, he could not conceal all his thoughts.

In the twilight of reflection even shadows came home to roost. How much more so, then, a charge of manslaughter which was a preliminary, which may be charged to murder by the coroner's jury? How many thousand times, in the silent watches of the night, do the semaphores, pointing like an index finger of accusation, point down the darkness, pointing, forever pointing in his direction. How those lights, now red, now green, alter, how they flash and danger, parade in never-ending succession before the sleepless eyes of the night. He knows, he knows in the dark, and the night, he knows the endless only "John Doe, you are charged with being drunk and you are guilty or not guilty?"

NOT GUILTY PLEA.

"Then it comes at last 'Not guilty,' Barry, manslaughter." There is no question of guilt or innocence. He is not asked to plead. It is not the time for that. No complaint has been filed and one does not plead to a felony case in the police court. When a complaint is filed an indictment follows and a day is set for arraignment.

No complaint against the suffering man was filed this morning, but when his name was called Barry rose slowly and faced the judge and a crowded courtroom. His voice was low and at times slightly hoarse. It was not the voice of the strong man who grasps the throttle and feels the strength of his engine pulsing through his veins.

SOMETHING OF DESPAIR.

It should be like the despair of the man who has fallen from a high estate and already hears the clank of the steel gate behind him. It should be like the despair of the man who has been released on his own recognizance, and who has been a long time for the bright sun, the blue sky and the untrammelled air was in the pleading.

BACK TO JAIL.

Barry repeated himself and his thoughts seemed to turn again to the chance of those which must be his during the night. Soon the work of the morning was completed and Barry, with those who paid the penalty for their offenses, went back to the city prison, while the clerk entered on his book, "July 7 to file complaint."

An inquest upon the deaths caused by the wreck is to be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and officials are busy today serving many subpoenas for attendance. It is probable that a great deal of testimony will be taken.

AT THE POPE'S GIRLDE.

Pope Pius X. carries at his girde an old with of base metal, the face shined, with a plain leather guard. He was looking at this watch the other day when a Roman noble, whom he had given an audience, produced his own richly-chased and jeweled gold watch and begged the Pope to accept it in exchange for the much-worn timepiece, which he said he should regard as a priceless possession. The Pope gently declined. "It was a present from my dear mother," he said. "I was quite a small boy when she gave it to me with this very same leather guard I am wearing now. I promised to keep it until it was worn out beyond repair. It must be a good watch, for it has never disappointed me yet."

TAFT HARD AT WORK ORGANIZING CAMPAIGN

The Presidential Candidate Consults With the Party Leaders

NOT SPRING, Va., July 6.—When Judge William H. Taft arose today more than realized what a difficult task it is to be a candidate for the presidency and to attempt to secure reelection in the isolation of a mountain of Virginia. Nearly this morning a dozen boxes of records were delivered to his office and his secretary superintended the work of arranging their contents in the dining room where they will be accessible during the next two months.

MUCH CORRESPONDENCE.

A mass of correspondence is coming to him, necessitating his personal attention and the dictation of many letters. In his spare time he is busy with his work and recreation he accepted a challenge made by Frank B. Kellogg for a game of golf on the mountain link. The presidential candidate and the "trust buster" started out very soon after breakfast.

RIDING AND GOLF.

Mr. Taft's horse, however, he will alternate golf with riding over the mountain paths.

Mr. Taft feels that he is a subject for contemplation because he has seen all of his knowledge to let it be of contribution received after a nomination he thought over 1500 of them from Washington and has since closely to the task of reading and seeing them all and is arising with great regularity and leisurely reading a personal consideration are constantly increasing in number.

CONFERS WITH CRANE.

This afternoon he had another conference with Senator Crane, who expects to leave here tonight, accompanied by Representative Lawrence, of Massachusetts, who came with him. Mr. Crane's visit has set at rest suggestions that he will be enlisted in the active work of the campaign in any important way. He has talked over the situation in New England in great detail and his suggestions have been carefully noted by Mr. Taft.

reference with Senator Crane, who expects to leave here tonight, accompanied by Representative Lawrence, of Massachusetts, who came with him. Mr. Crane's visit has set at rest suggestions that he will be enlisted in the active work of the campaign in any important way. He has talked over the situation in New England in great detail and his suggestions have been carefully noted by Mr. Taft.

THE INDIANA SITUATION.

Senator Beveridge of Indiana and Representative McKinley of Illinois had an interesting discussion today with Mr. Taft. Senator Beveridge's talk concerned the difficulties stirred up in his State by the action of the convention in as to the Fairbanks delegates, and McKinley concerning the treasurer of the national committee.

The coming of Senator Beveridge a day ahead of Senator Hendon and Representative Watson permitted Mr. Taft to get information on the Indian situation before the coming of the men who direct by represent the Fairbanks faction.

ANXIOUS FOR HARMONY.

The State is regarded as of such importance that Mr. Taft considers it highly important that there should be assurances of harmony there over the chairmanship, whenever it is filled that position.

Representative McKinley is talked of for the chairmanship, but Charles M. Dawes of Chicago, former controller of the currency, is still in mind for that office. McKinley's visit here today will do much to clear up the situation in this respect.

IDENTIFIED ROOSEVELT DEAD BY TRIBUNE CENSURED BY CASTRO MINISTER

Eight Months Ago Brother of Saturday Night's Collision Victim was Killed by S. F. Street Car

Just eight months ago today, twenty-four hours later than the killing of Lincoln L. Burton by the collision Saturday night between the Alameda local and the Santa Cruz passenger train, Mr. Burton's brother, who was run down and killed by a car of the United Railroads in San Francisco.

Both of these men were prominent in the labor union movement. Mr. Burton was one of the best known of the union officials of the street car men on the western coast. The brother killed Saturday night, as equally as prominent, but in a different way.

Lincoln L. Burton lived at 6058 California street, San Francisco, and was a contractor. He is survived by a wife and several step children. It was not until this morning that his death was known to the family of Mr. Burton on Sunday morning that they knew of his being killed.

IDENTIFIES BODY.

The body was identified on Sunday morning by another brother, Dr. E. J. Burton of 647 Ninth avenue, San Francisco. Dr. Burton read the account of the death in THE TRIBUNE and from the description given was satisfied of the identity of the dead man. He at once came to this city and visited the body. While he appreciated the confusion that existed during the time of the accident, he was inclined to criticize the authorities of the United Railroads and the police, which was obtained from contents of his pocketbook, because some word had not been sent to his family.

IN CONTRACTING BUSINESS.

The dead man was on his way home at the time of the accident. He was engaged in the construction of a building in Hayward. Mr. Burton was born December 23, 1880, at Northampton, N. J., his father being one of the pioneers of that State. He was a graduate of the Law School at Washington, D. C., and practiced the legal profession in Oregon for several years. He gave up the law when he came to California and entered the employ of the United Railroads, several years ago he entered the contracting business.

THE DEAD MAN WAS A MEMBER OF THE

Woodmen of the World, who will take charge of the funeral.

ALLEGES CONFUSION.

In his letter notifying the foreign minister of his intention to leave the Venezuelan capital, Sleeper wrote that in view of the Venezuelan government's persistent refusal to give redress "for the governmental action by which all American interests have been destroyed or confiscated," and "in view of the tone and character of communication received from the Venezuelan minister of foreign affairs, a subsequent to the withdrawal of Sleeper's letter that not only are the friendly relations interrupted, but completely severed."

CENSURES ROOSEVELT.

Dr. Pa's reply to this communication was made in the same tone which characterized previous communications made to the American representative.

CENSURES ROOSEVELT.

It is declared that President Roosevelt has persisted in asking redress for American interests and individuals without any notice and right, and that Venezuela is not blameable if it does not permit the nation to be treated of its rights. A request for safe conduct made in W. S. Soper's letter is refused on the ground that as no state of war exists, the Venezuelan government did not consider it necessary or fit to grant it.

EXPLOSION IN ARSENAL CAUSES A GREAT FIRE

Disastrous Conflagration at Port Au Prince

PORT AU PRINCE, Hayti, July 5.—The disastrous fire, which was started in the vicinity of the Palace and immediate buildings here yesterday, and was believed to have been controlled, a terribly building were destroyed, broke out again during the night and caused further extensive damage. The renewal of the conflagration was caused by an explosion in the arsenal, which shook the whole town, damaged many buildings and scattered blazing embers over a wide area.

Before the flames started by this explosion were subdued, forty buildings had been destroyed.

The chamber of Deputies and the large establishment of the Congress of St. Louis were menaced for a time by the flames, but they were saved without damage.

IADLY SHAKEN UP.

After securing his prisoner, Collins went in a cail for the Harbor ambulance, and both Quinn and Gavin were taken to the hospital for treatment. The special officer had received four or five lacerated wounds of the scalp and several ugly gashes in the face, but although his head was badly injured, the skull was not fractured and he will be on his feet again in a few days.

Gavin was charged with assault to murder and the various hospitals of the city were notified to arrest any suspicious character who should apply for treatment for a gunshot wound.

SUSPECT RELEASED.

A man named Edward Watkins was found on the sidewalk at Fourth and Townsend streets at 8 o'clock this morning, suffering from severe bruising of the head and a cut over the right eye. He could give but a poor account of himself when treated at the Central Emergency Hospital, and it is the theory of the police that he must have been the second man in the assault on Quinn; but as he had no gunshot wounds and owing to the darkness the office could give no description of the second man, he was not held by the police.

$5,340,000 FOR THE OAKLAND WATERFRONT

rather than rigid, and were it not for their perishability the wooden piers as now constructed would be almost ideal. The average pier is timbered at the bottom thirty and forty years in the North and East rivers, and it appears before a pier reaches its limits of durability it is likely to have been replaced or to have been replaced with a more modern structure. It therefore seems that the best plan is to replace the old piers with other things being equal.

On the subject of piers it may be interesting to note that the sewage pollution of the waters of the North and East rivers have a lion share in the damage to the piers. The sewage is carried by the clean, unpolluted sea water to the coast of the piers, and the sewage is an efficient safeguard at least for a period of time. The sewage is called the commercial life of a pier structure.

On the bay shore, experience has shown that the action of the sea worms is rapid, therefore the concrete pier or protected pier is necessary. Experience in raising piers along this shore shows that the bottom is of layers of sand and mud of such consistency that the maximum length of wooden pier necessary is 50 feet, and even a shorter pier is sufficient bearing power in most places.

The concrete pier can be jettied down through its bottom and will have sufficient bearing power.

Along the coast of Webster street the conditions for the use of the concrete pier are even better than on the bay shore, but in section No. 4 the depth of sea mud makes it preferable to use a protected pier.

The action of the sea worms along the harbor has been so decreased by the sewage and waste oil that a concrete pier would not doubt but many years. In the recent repairs to the Webster street wharf, piers were replaced that had been in use twenty years. Of course, these piers were in very bad condition, but the condition tending to preserve the pier will probably increase.

BULKHEAD.
Section No. 4, or account of the depth of the water, requires a bulkhead of rock fill type, with long slopes. To give room for the slopes the bulkhead is placed some distance back from the end of the pier. The remainder of the waterfront, however, furnishes good ground for bulkhead construction, and the type proposed consists of a concrete sea wall fourteen feet deep and ten feet wide on the base resting on wooden piles; the latter being protected from sea waves by the rock fill in front, which will stand on a slope of not more than 2 to 1, and by a covering of rip-rap.

Experience in sea coast work has shown that large masses of rock are not subject to any system of structural ties to hold the wall in place. The large masses suffer less from shock and are dependent on their own weight alone to hold them in position.

Placing the proposed bulkhead along the end of the pier causes a loss of about fifty feet of the shore end of the pier, due to the slope in front of the bulkhead, but it is cheaper and gives more valuable floor space to extend the pier this distance, than to build an apron or wharf over this slope.

Wharves over this slope are proposed only where the ground is long enough to accommodate small vessels.

COST.
The estimated cost of pier construction is as follows:
Reinforced concrete pier on concrete piles, 125 feet wide, with fenders complete per linear foot. $230
Steel pier-shed, 125 feet wide, per linear foot. 97
Concrete bulkhead, per linear foot. 48
On this basis a pier 800 feet long, with 225 feet of bulkhead, exclusive of dredging, will cost $123,800.
If covered, add for cost of shed. $60,100
Total cost. $183,900
This is at the rate of $234 per square foot of pier without the shed.
The Lombard street wharf in San Francisco, a steel and wooden floor system on protected piles, has recently been built at a cost of $118 per square foot.

The Board of Harbor Commissioners of San Francisco estimated that a wharf, same as the Lombard street wharf, would cost $240 per square foot.
New York wharves of standard wooden construction cost about $2 per square foot.

osoted piles, at 75 cents per square foot, is $1,070,000.
Accompanying this report are the following maps and plans.
General map showing low tide and harbor lines, general map showing proposed improvements, plan of improvements for section No. 1, plan of improvements for section No. 2, plan of improvements for section No. 3, plan of improvements for section No. 4, map showing soundings, not of sea shore, set of six studies, set of five detailed construction plans.
The original tracings, reference maps and collected and detailed estimates in connection with this report have been filed in the City Engineer's office.
Respectfully submitted,
E. F. BROWN,
Assistant City Engineer.

COMPREHENSIVE REPORT.
The above report is very comprehensive and covers every feature of the development of the harbor except the acquiring of land. This latter may be covered what might be called the work progress. In considering the most practicable and feasible methods of improvement it was deemed wise to divide the work into two sections, as there is a call for methods of construction in some parts different from that in others. Development work can proceed in each section simultaneously in the demands of commerce and business warrant it, or we can take up the improvement of one section at a time.

DEMANDS OF SHIPPING.
It is our judgment that the present demands of the shipping trade require that work commence at once along the south front adjacent to the business center. Sections 1 and 2 are designed to accommodate an enormous traffic and will be suitable for the largest sea-going vessels desiring convenient railroad connection. Private enterprise is already developing facilities for this class of traffic, and we are informed that additional grain elevators and other facilities will be used for such purposes. It will be certainly prudent and wise for the city to also provide public wharves and piers for the handling of cargo, which may be had of the entire wharfing business.

The partial improvement of these sections by railroad and other interests will relieve the public from making vast expenditures and at the same time will furnish wharfing accommodations suitable to the needs of commerce. The granting of wharfing rights to private enterprise in these sections should be considered and the utmost care taken to see that the proposed improvement conforms to the general scheme as planned and outlined in this report. It is proposed that the sections be secured the most economical and wise use of this valuable heritage of the people. Wharves and piers are not only to be used for the handling of cargo, but also for the use of the public for the use of the public for the use of the public.

NORTH ARM OF ESTUARY.
Section 4 includes that portion of the estuary known as the "North Arm," and which affords the opportunity of splendid development. At the present time the harbor lines extend up and down this inlet, and it is proposed to request the United States government to change these so that they will run across the mouth of the estuary, thus giving a wharfing purposes this large area.

This section lies adjacent to a manufacturing and business portion of the city and the Federal government has agreed to grant the change in the harbor lines as outlined, and we recommend its adoption and forwarding to the proper department.

HARBOR LINES.
The change in the harbor lines as proposed, would result in the relocation and filling of the tidal area between First and Eighth streets that lies between the low tide line on the west side of the channel as it existed in 1902 to the low tide line on the east side, with the exception, of course, of a limited channel for supplying Lake Merritt. This area is now the property of the city and the Federal government has agreed to grant the change in the harbor lines as outlined, and we recommend its adoption and forwarding to the proper department.

NEAR BUSINESS CENTER.
Section 3 includes all the territory lying between Webster and Linden streets and is contiguous to the city's chief business center. It is in front of this strip that the United States government has already dredged a channel, so that with a little additional dredging this portion of our waterfront becomes immediately available. It is along this part of the harbor that a large portion of the shipping business is now done. Much of this strip is already improved and in use by private interests, but inasmuch as all the structures thereon except the two bridges, the low tide line and the line of 1902, they are occupying territory which is under the exclusive jurisdiction of the city of Oakland. We therefore have the right to proceed to put this territory to the best possible use. Wherever it is now being rightfully used, arrangement should be made by lease or franchise grant, so as not to disturb or destroy a business enterprise. There is, however, sufficient area that can be better developed and made to suit present demands of shipping traffic.

FIRST WORK.
We recommend, therefore, that the improvement of section 3 be taken up first, and that the business section of the city be the first work undertaken and that proceedings be immediately begun so that an early start can be made on actual construction.

Respectfully submitted,
BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

J. C. TURNER,
Commissioners.

CONDITION OF BISHOP POTTER IS UNCHANGED
COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., July 6.—There appeared to be little change in Bishop Potter's condition today.

GREAT SUFFERING FROM INTENSE HEAT

NEW YORK, July 6.—New Yorkers who for nearly two weeks have been sweltering in one of the most prolonged and unrelenting periods of heat in many years, were warned by the weather bureau today that the end is not yet in sight.

IN THE POORER QUARTERS.
All last night in the poorer quarters of the city thousands slept on fire escapes, on steps or in the open parks and are seeking relief today.

All indications were for even more severe conditions than they were called upon to face yesterday. By 9 o'clock the government thermometer had fallen 30 degrees, with the humidity eight degrees lower.

At 10 o'clock the temperature had gone up to 84 and at 11 to 86 degrees in the morning the humidity had fallen gradually until at 11 o'clock it registered 32 degrees.

DEATHS AND INSANITY.
The effect of the long continued abnormally conditions became apparent early in the day when reports of deaths, prostration and sudden insanity began to pour in at police headquarters.

Miss Mary Moran, 28 years of age, died at her home in the Bronx.
Mrs. Clara Moore, 60 years old, rolled from a bed near a window into an alleyway.

ATTEMPTS AT MURDER.
Two Brooklyn men, who are believed to have been crazed by the excessive heat, were taken to the Kings County Hospital early today after they had attempted to kill their wives.

William Trizello, a clerk in the real estate office, threw a lamp at his wife and when his son Charles intervened to save his mother, slashed both mother and son with a carving knife, inflicting painful but not dangerous wounds. He was overpowered by a policeman.

Michael Metteler attacked his wife with a carving knife, but she escaped. When the ambulance physicians arrived Metteler fought them desperately, but was placed in a straight jacket.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY GIVES OPINION ON LIQUOR LICENSES

Important Ruling Affecting the Saloonkeepers

District Attorney Brown gave an opinion to the Board of Supervisors this morning to the effect that, in precincts of the city in which local option is in effect, saloons may be secured by the filing of a petition by a majority of the voters of that precinct against the granting of a liquor license therein.

AFFECTS SEVERAL SALOON MEN.
The opinion was given at the request of the board at the office of several applications for saloon licenses in precinct No. 7, Fruitvale, who jointly presented a single petition signed by 261 residents, asking the board to grant them licenses.

The parties interested in the application were John Marshall, 1336 High street, Carl Lyon, corner of East Fourteenth and High streets, A. A. Swan, 460 East Fourth street, W. Shoninger, 408 East Fourteenth street, Fred and Sullivan, East Fourteenth street and San Leandro road, A. Pellegrini, 1332 Vine street, John Schiavone, Bay avenue, and Jim Smith, A. Henry, 911 High street, and N. H. Holm, 700 High street.

Under the opinion of the district attorney each of these saloon men will be required to present a petition of their own containing the names of a number of qualified voters in excess of those signed to the petition against saloons, which numbered 150.

BOARD SETS ASIDE OBJECTION.
Attorney Puleo offered from the district attorney but Chairman Mitchell said that the spirit of the ordinance was according to the interpretation of the district attorney and the board would hereafter consider no saloon petition which did not comply with the opinion in question.

GIVEN A CHANCE.
A Prilligral on Fifty-fourth avenue, who had filed a petition without the requisite number of signers was permitted to withdraw the same in order to comply with the new ruling of the board.

Representatives of the anti-license move wanted the license which had been granted to Owen Paul at Melrose road, to be withdrawn, but the petition did not have the requisite number of local signers.

Chairman Mitchell said that the board was not in the habit of granting liquor licenses to persons with inadequate petitions.

Unprecedented Piano Opportunity Good Pianos Half Price

TWO CARLOADS REFUSED BY LOCAL HOUSE BECAUSE NOT ORDERED, TO BE SOLD AT LESS THAN COST.

A manufacturer recently shipped two carloads of regular $350 and $425 style pianos to a local house. The shipment was refused because consignee claimed they had not been ordered.

The pianos finally were delivered to a storage warehouse. After a great deal of correspondence they have been turned over to EILERS MUSIC COMPANY for disposition.

Each instrument is perfect and brand new. We have determined to make quick work of it and shall sell every piano this week.

There are forty-two instruments in all—eighteen $425 styles and twenty-four $350 styles.

We shall sell the first mentioned one, at the uniform price of $212.50—$12 cash and $5 a month. A five year unconditional guarantee duly counter-signed by us accompanies each instrument.

The $350 styles will go for $172, which is less than half price. Payments $12 cash and $5 a month buys this guarantee, same as above; we hold ourselves absolutely for durability and quality.

July is the duldest month in the year in piano trade, but the factory returns—cash or interest-bearing contracts. The price quoted are the lowest, no further discounts for all cash.

Time buyers will pay simple interest at 4 per cent per annum additional. Del. very free in Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley.

This extraordinary offer should make July a memorably busy one in our establishment. We will pay you to investigate this at once. Hundreds of your friends and neighbors have bought these pianos and paid the dealer's regular retail prices. If you are prepared to pay $12 for first payment you can secure a positive saving of half the price of your piano.

Sale of Tickets Shows That Money Is Not So Close After All.

T. A. Rigdon, passenger agent of the Santa Fe in this city, says that all he talk about hard times in this city and around the bay is not real.

Mr. Rigdon has an opportunity of knowing what is going on in the business line in Oakland because he is brought in close touch with the merchants.

"Business is picking up in fine style in this city," said Mr. Rigdon. "I have had occasion lately to check up my business in comparison with last year's business. My record shows that for the month of June, 1908, I sold within the overland tickets short of what I sold in June, 1907. Now mind you, last year was considered a very good year in the business. So you see the record for June this year shows that the people I've money on which to travel."

SELLING TICKETS EAST.
"By selling tickets East I mean to Chicago and points beyond. This all goes to show that the Santa Fe is gaining in public favor every day as a trans-continental line."

Good Optical Houses

Many items enter the making of good glasses. Some of these items may be obtained from any kind of an optical store, no matter how poor the equipment.

The finer and really important items can be supplied only by those who possess complete manufacturing facilities.

Chinn-Beretta have seven stores and seven factories in the State of California.

CHINN-BERETTA OPTICAL COMPANY

—You're dead tired tonight, ain't you?

—And you wouldn't even take the trouble to read this ad if you weren't curious to know what freaky things we might say.

—You're a good deal like the folks who say they go out to Idora to see the hullion go up when they reason 90 per cent of them do go out is to see the Professor come down, feeling that same day he'll come down wrong, and they want to be there to help.

—Oh, we're all alike—we're all noddies when it comes right down to it.

—We all like the scenic Rail way because it takes our breath away—we tackle the "Dicker" because it gives a new sensation. We say Japanese pink pong to beat the other fellow, and so it goes.

—Of course we're polished vases and all that, but just the same we're all out after something that makes our hair stand up.

—And why shouldn't it be so? We work like the deuce all day long and when night comes we want a change—we crave relaxation—and what a poor sort of relaxation it is, that doesn't have some life and a spirit in it!

—Why don't you come out to Idora Park tonight? (We have to say something like this because we are paying $12 or $15 for this space).

—But seriously, "Why don't you?" —Why don't you call up some good, jolly friend right now and make up a party—and give it a fling just for fun?

—It will do you more good than a barrel of monkeys.

—It will fit you fine for the fight of tomorrow—it will clear your brain to have a good laugh—it will brighten your wits, it will help your digestion, it will put sparkles into your eyes and a spring in your step.

—And with it all you'll have a good time—a lively, jolly, wholesome time, full of excitement and thrill and gladder, and with it all none of the dangers that sometimes lurk around amusement parks.

—So divide right now and call your little helmsman and your friends and say to them, "Idora Park for me tonight—are you with me? I'm going to be a kid for an hour!"
